Artist Statement: The theme for my photos was "spring reflections". My goal was to capture how spring is progressing, showing a sense of calm and development in this time of mayhem. While there is a lot to stress about right now, it is important to stop, look around, and appreciate the beauty that exists outside. The photos in this project were taken around my yard. I used two mirrors, a large circular one and a smaller crescent one. I played with the positions of mirrors and different angles to give the pictures a new sense of depth, almost as if the view in the mirror is that into a different dimension.
